The finishing touch

Choosing the right ironmongery can help to put the finishing touches on your new doors and windows. Our design team are committed to understanding your needs and can find the right options for you.

High-level specifications

Our various ironmongery options are factory-fitted with the highest levels of specification. With Altus, can be confident and clear that you're investing in complete peace of mind – now and for years to come.

Multi-point locking systems

All of our flush and stormproof windows and doors have multi-point locking systems and shootbolts as standard, although other locking systems are available.

The standard window multi-point locking system incorporates MACO shootbolt system which has been vigorously tested for security and performance above the current requirements of industry standards. For performance the locks have been tested to 40,000 operations, and have been salt spray tested for 500 hours by the BBA. (BBA assessment report No. 1469). For strength the locks have been tested to 7.4KN which is more than double the current requirement of BS7590:1997.

The standard door multi-point locking system incorporates 2 hooks, 2 shootbolt, a deadlock and latch capable of being secured by a keyed eurocylinder from both sides. The system has been developed with the timber market in mind. The bolt offers a modern method of securing the door. The lock has been tested to 100,000 cycles, and have been plated to BS EN 1670.

Bespoke – it's your choice

Amongst our ironmongery options you will find:

- A fantastic selection of shootbolt window handles to suit every need, including modern, gothic, tudor and monkeytail handles.
- A wide range of modern door handles, letterplates (some with draft proof inserts) knobs, knockers, security chains, bolts, spyholes, and dog bolts.
- We can also supply traditional front door locking systems comprising a traditional high security nightlatch, and 5 lever deadlock both of which are security rated.
- For vertical sliding sashes we can offer a superb range of fitch fasteners, dee handles, sash lifts, and sash bolts to limit the travel of the sashes. Sliding sashes can be made with traditional weights and pulleys, or modern spiral balances, the choice is yours.
- All of these options are available in a variety of colours including gold, brass, black, white, chrome, satin chrome, bronze, satin bronze, antique black, and many other colours and finishes.
- Any other options and choices are available depending on the options you require, if it can be done, we will do it.
